The 24th Annual Meeting of AMCBT will be held as stated above, October 3-4, 1980 at Millikin University, Decatur, Illinois. James Royce, Program Chairman, is lining up some very interesting speakers and topics. Specific details and exact times of presentations will be coming in the Fall with the official program, however we wanted to alert you at this time to what you can expect. We hope this will encourage you to come and bring along some of your colleagues, especially those who aren't members of AMCBT. During this time of budget cut-backs, recession and/or inflation, we know travel funds will be tight, but if we can pool resources, we can go further on our dollars. In addition, if you can car pool, you'll conserve resources as well. While administrators seem to limit their fiscal conservation to teachers salaries, let us show our environmental and financial concern by best utilizing our resources, be they dollars or gallons, in coming to AMCBT this fall. (Also don't be hesitant in informing your administration of your conservation efforts. Let your light shine.)